HomeExpert Market Watch 2009

Burlington County, NJ

RESEARCH DIVISION

The numbers listed below represent the current market conditions. Despite the slow down after record-breaking years, home sales remain strong. The trends indicate that home sellers need to be more careful in how they price their property and might experience a somewhat longer than expected marketing time.

Conversely, buyers will now have a larger inventory from which to select their new home and interest rates remain at very low, affordable levels.
